

Scott Maderer

About Scott Maderer

I am an expert in helping folks transition from "working" to living their calling. Whatever that looks like for them. I speak on helping people identify their calling, get out of their own way so they can really live it out, and how they can deal with their their time, their talent, or their treasures to really live their dream. I talk on productivity and time management, leadership and communication, and business and personal money and finances. I am certified in DISC personality/communication tools and have been a working coach since 2011 doing coaching full time since 2017. I specialize in mindset and behavior change more than the tools to use.

Here is a link to some free resources:

<https://inspiredstewardship.com/questions>

Scott's website:

Home - Inspired Stewardship

OUR MISSION

Our mission is to help you find freedom by learning how to be better Stewards of your time talent and treasures. We want to walk beside you on a journey to find what you want from your finances, your career, and your life. We will act as coaches, not counselors. Actively working with you to find a way to have true success and live out your calling.

